COMMUNICATION

Dealing with a crowd is considered one of my strong points. As a successful dentist, a key role in our career is great communication. Being able to listen carefully to people and explain to them various procedures and treatment options that best fit their situation is a must in our practice and should be integrated in our daily life to provide a top notch service.

LEADERSHIP

As a GP in charge of various clinics in the university, I must take a leader's role at times. This emphasizes on the importance of being a good role model and work along with colleagues which gives you great respect in return and helps with making a very effective and productive environment at work.
